DEMOCRATS NOMINATE SAMUEL W. EMERY, JR.,

Their Candidate For Mayor---No Opposition And A Quiet Caucus

The Democratic caucus for the nomination of a candidate for mayor, four councilmen-at-large and four members of the board of instruction was held on Monday evening at the Court house on State street. There was not a very great interest taken inasmuch as there was no opposition.

The caucus opened at six o'clock and closed at eight. John L. Mitchell was moderator and William L. Conlon secretary, while the tellers were Jonas Casey, R. C. Wiley, W. H. Moran, T. P. McWilliams and Daniel Murphy.

At eight o'clock the following announcement was made to the fifty two democrats present.

Whole number of votes cast...129
Necessary for choice...215

The following ticket had the entire number and were declared the nominees:

For Mayor, Samuel W. Emery, Jr.

For Councilmen at large, John G. Parsons, Andrew B. Sherburne, Fred W. Manson and Horace W. Gray.

For members of the Board of Instruction, William O. Jenkins, Lucius H. Thayer, Annie H. Hewitt and William W. Cotton.

On motion the moderator appointed the following committee to wait on Mr. Emery and inform him of his nomination: C. B. Hoyt, W. E. Marvin, Stanton Trueman, George D. Marey and Jeremiah Coughig. They found Mr. Emery at his office and on their return Mr. Emery made a short speech in which he thanked them for the second expression of confidence and he promised that they would not have any reason to regret this if he was elected, and he would be elected.

For there was no reason why he and a majority of the board should not be elected if every democrat did their duty from now until election day. If elected he would faithfully perform the duties of the office and be mayor all of the time subject to nobody's control. He had no friends to reward and no enemies to revenge himself on. He promised a business like and economical rule of the office.

At the conclusion three cheers were given for Mr. Emery.

NEWBERRY IS SECRETARY SATTERLEE FOR ASSISTANT

New Organization for United States Navy Department

Washington, Dec. 1.—If Herbert Livingston Satterlee, son-in-law of J. Pierpont Morgan, will accept the assistant secretaryship of the navy, vacated today by Truman H. Newberry, who becomes secretary of the navy, President Roosevelt will name him for the office.

A tender of the place was made to him nearly a week ago. He was in communication with friends here last night getting them to help him to make up his mind. As much was admitted at the White House, but unwillingly. It was the White House plan to have the matter kept secret until Mr. Satterlee should decide whether he could afford to take the place.

Mr. Satterlee is a nephew of the late Bishop Henry Yates Satterlee. The Morgan and Satterlee families were drawn so closely together by marriage that in the past whenever the financier came to Washington he made the home of the Bishop his abiding place, especially while he was a delegate to the Episcopal convention held here about two years ago.

Mr. Satterlee knows the navy department fairly well. He has been a member of the board of visitors to Annapolis and is now president of the Naval Reserve Association. During the war with Spain he was a volunteer lieutenant assigned to the naval intelligence bureau in this city and on the staff of the late Capt. John R. Bartlett, chief of that bureau. He served from July to November on that commission.

The tender of the assistant secretaryship to Col. Satterlee has caused a stir here. If he accepts, Mr. Morgan will be personally represented in responsible government positions by Assistant Secretary Robert Bacon of the State department, formerly his partner, and his son-in-law as assistant secretary of the navy.

New York, Dec. 1.—Herbert L. Satterlee declines to discuss his expected appointment as assistant secretary of the navy.

Mr. Satterlee was engaged in conferences and was understood to be in communication with government officials in Washington by telephone. He would not say whether he would accept the office which is believed to have been tendered to him.

BLAME FOR RAILROAD ACCIDENTS

The rear-end railroad collision on the New Haven road in Boston on Saturday night brings prominently before the public one thought that has been largely lost sight of in the railroad battling discussion of the last two years, namely, the fact that however good the system, there must be careful employees to administer the system, and without such careful employees no system however careful or however expensive, will prevent disasters.

At the place of this accident in Boston there were semaphore signals, a signal tower, a straight track and opportunity for clear vision by the engine crew. The signal man being interviewed, said that he knew every circumstance surrounding the movement of these two trains at this time, and therefore he set the danger signal—the red light—for the second train. If he did this then the engineer of the second train ran by a danger signal. One or the other of these two men is to blame, and if the negligence is as glaring as it appears, some punishment should be visited upon these guilty employees.

There have been many accidents on railroads in this vicinity of late where the mechanical system was excellent but where the administration of it by employees was criminally negligent. It is time for the general public to visit its displeasure upon the employee who with a good system in perfect order causes death and injury to passengers whose safety is entrusted to him.

THE WASHINGTON GUNMAKERS

Navy Department Will Keep Them at Work for the Present

The navy department has reconsidered its plan of dismissing between 250 and 300 employees at the Washington navy yard about the first of January, and will endeavor to maintain the present force of operatives at least until April 1 next.

Secretary Navy has issued the following statement on the subject: "In order to postpone as many of the discharges as possible for as long as possible work will be undertaken at the navy yard which will remain until about March 31 nearly the present force in the breech-mechanical shop, gunshop, cast gun carriage shop, miscellaneous repair shop, lightship and erecting shop.

"As far as can be seen," said Mr. Newberry to the Washington Star "in order to get the yard down to a one-shift-a-day basis, it will be necessary eventually to discharge about 450 men. That's as far as we can look ahead at this time. Much will depend upon the dimensions of the next naval appropriation."

"The necessity of dependence by the government upon these private plants in time of emergency might be decidedly lessened if the tools that cannot be bought in the open market, but which must be supplied by the government, could be produced and installed at a moment's notice. They cannot be. Some of the gun-fitting tools (machines) at the Washington yard, for instance, could not be duplicated in less than twelve months.

"It is true that a fire that destroyed the navy yard would not destroy these machines, but the action of heat and water would put them entirely out of commission. The government, then, would have to fall back on Bethlehem and Midvale, because they would be the only shops in the country capable of doing the work required.

"This explanation is incidental to the question of naval policy I have spoken of: Shall or shall not the gun work be divided between the Washington yard and private plants?

"There is distinct advantage to be gained by letting gun work to private factories. It taps the inventive and perfecting genius of the country at large. Private plants draw their mechanical forces from far and wide, and the creative skill thus gathered together, the mechanical initiative, is placed at the government's command. The field for selection and adoption of new designs is thus greatly enlarged. Furthermore, competition between the private plants and the Washington navy yard serves to stimulate the latter to higher efficiency."

A GOOD STOMACH

Means Good Health, Cheerfulness, Ambition, Persistency and Success

Relief is not cure; opium will stop the most excruciating pain, but it won't cure the disease.

And it's just the same with alleged dyspepsia cures which contain poison. The poison will help to digest the food, but the stomach is left in worse condition than it was before.

You don't want poison to digest your food; you want the natural juices of your stomach to digest your food. If you have dyspepsia or any stomach trouble, you want to make your stomach so strong that it will digest its own food.

You can make your stomach so strong that you can eat what you want and all you want any time you want it, without distress.

Milona will cure your dyspepsia or any other stomach trouble by building up the flabby walls, and making the stomach so strong that it will digest food without artificial aid.

In other words, Milona cures dyspepsia by removing the cause. Goodwin H. Phillips is the agent for Milona in Portsmouth and he says to every reader of the Herald whose stomach is weak, who has indigestion or dyspepsia, that Milona is guaranteed to cure or money back.

The price is only 50 cents a box, and one box is all you need to prove that you are on the right road to health and happiness.

"I can't say enough for Milona tablets; they have done more for me in one week than all the doctors have for the two years I have been under their care, and I will do all I can to recommend it to my friends. You can also use my name in your ad. If you like, for Milona is better than paid to me. I am like a new man, and am able to work once more to the first time in over a year."—W. A. Good Things To Eat

CABBAGE SALAD.

Select a flat, round, solid cabbage. Remove the outer, broken leaves, and with a sharp knife cut out the center, leaving nothing but a shell, which is to serve as a salad bowl. Let the shell and pieces lie in cold water for an hour, then shake free from water. Slice the cabbage fine and sprinkle with salt, pepper and celery salt. Next two cups, add five tablespoons of vinegar, one tablespoon of sugar, one-quarter teaspoon of dry mustard and a teaspoon of butter. Cook until enough and when cold add in one-half cup of cream. Mix with the cold cabbage, fill the shell and garnish with a spoonful of the cream dressing, radish, pears, parsley or slices of hard boiled egg. This shaved cabbage slushy seasoned with salt and pepper, a little finely chopped onion and moistened with the egg is appetizing. Share the cabbage on for the salad, then cook until tender in rapidly boiling water, keeping the kettle uncovered. Drain and pour on a sauce made from two level tablespoons of butter, one-half teaspoon of salt and one-half cup of strong vinegar. After the cabbage and the sauce have been heated together it is ready to serve.

THE SEAPORTS OF EUROPE

And the Lessons They Teach of How To Develop a Harbor.

NO. 5, THE PORT OF HULL.
Kingston-on-Hull, Yorkshire, England, is situated on a low level plain bordering the Humber river and is about twenty miles from the North Sea.

The Humber is one of the greatest rivers in Britain and it drains an area of upwards of 10,000 square miles, or about one-sixth of the kingdom. With its tributaries and canals it connects many large towns. There is no bar in the Humber river and it has a deep channel from Hull to the sea with a width of 1500 feet and upwards.

The rise and fall of tide at Hull varies from 16 to 20 feet and has a velocity of more than four miles an hour. The question of utilizing the tide to generate electricity has been recently agitated.

The population in 1805 was 35,000; in 1874, 131,315; in 1905, 250,000. The tonnage of its ships has progressed wonderfully in the past century. In 1805 it was 174,963; in 1855, 782,111, and in 1905, 4,575,311. The imports and exports in the last two years have increased nearly fifty per cent. Hull was the first city in England to receive a municipal charter and the people of the city should feel proud that they have become so prosperous, for they early recognized the principle that "trade follows facilities" and by creating the facilities business has come their way.

The Port of Hull is now the third port in the United Kingdom. It has excellent water and rail communication with the surrounding country, as well as regular lines of steamers to the large cities of Europe and America. It is a modern port with docks, quays and appliances for quickly loading and unloading ships. There are immense warehouses and elevators. And it is one of the leading milling centers of the world. The annual imports of grain into Hull amount to over $45,000,000, most of which comes from the United States, Canada, India and Australia.

It is the center of the oil business of Great Britain and here are manufactured great quantities of kerosene, cottonseed and castor oils. The manufacture of paints is also carried on extensively. The nearness to the confluents of Yorkshire and the network of canals, rivers and railroads that connect it with the mines make Hull a convenient place for receiving and distributing coal. About 1,000,000 tons are handled annually. It has an immense system of wet docks, with a water area of 149 acres, and a land area of 258 acres. These docks are well equipped with sheds, coal hoists, cranes, etc., suitable for the requirements of the different trades. There are also a number of large dry docks.

An interesting feature of Hull's facilities is a system of applying motive power by hydraulic pressure to raising and leading roads, working docks gates, etc. The system was first used in Hull over thirty years ago and has been in successful operation to the present time. Many of the large cities of England and the continent are now using it and it is considered essential to any port or manufacturing town which would be up to date. The power is furnished at central pumping stations and distributed to different parts of the city through mains laid in the streets. Hydraulic power is used for a great many mechanical purposes. It is also used in connection with the hydrant service and when added to the low pressure it will throw a stream to a height of 100 feet. Hydraulic power is simple, easily managed and very economical.

Hull is one of the oldest and best known timber markets in the world. Much timber is imported from the north of Europe and there are more than eighty firms engaged in the timber business. The board of trade returns tell of the prosperity of Hull, but the four or five miles of docks extending along the Humber demonstrate its facilities for commerce.

An eminent but poor citizen of Hull, who did much for his city, wrote the following lines:

"How much one man can do
If he both know and act!"

OPEN SEASON ON DEER BEGINS TOMORROW

Not Today, as Last Year, So Beware of Too Early a Start

The open season on deer in Rockingham County begins tomorrow, December second, instead of December first, as last year. This is due to the wording of the law, which when more closely read caused the state game warden to ask for an opinion as to its meaning from Attorney General Eastman. He ruled that the law does not allow the killing of deer, except from December second and fourteenth, that the first and fifteenth were not included and therefore only those days between can be used.

There is considerable feeling through this section of the state over the matter, but the game wardens have given warning that they will prosecute any hunter after deer either the first or the fifteenth and it will be well to remember this.

From all reports, after the awful slaughter of last year when deer were killed like so many cows in a pasture, there will be hard work to find them in this county. They have been very scarce this summer and as wild as hawks, so that there will not be so many lying in back or a doe this year.

BIG FOOTBALL

The Boston Post has selected an all-American football eleven. For center it picks Schulte of Michigan, easily better than whom are three eastern centers. For quarterback it picks Tappie of the navy who, as a matter of fact, lost the navy its amateur game with the army on Saturday last. It puts Worwick as a halfback in the third eleven, when as a matter of fact in both of the big games he played fully as well as Coy or Yale. It says nothing about the Dartmouth center who easily ranks as the second best center of the year.

In its arrangement of the leading teams it makes the following list: First, Harvard. Second, Pennsylvania. Third, Yale. Fourth, Dartmouth. Fifth, West Point. Sixth, Princeton. This to us looks like a very fair arrangement.

WANT MORE TIME
Witnesses To Tariff Revision Claim Notice Was Too Short

Washington, Dec. 1.—Among those who have followed closely the tariff hearing before the ways and means committee of the house, an impression prevails that Representative Seneca E. Payne, chairman of the committee, will find it impossible to resist the requests for an extension of the time for witnesses to be heard on the proposed revision of the tariff. It is asserted that not sufficient notice was given by the chairman to permit those interested to gather pertinent facts in regard to the schedules in which they desire changes. This was emphasized at the hearings last week, nearly all of which required sessions until midnight.

Mr. Payne also has been asked to extend the time in which it will be possible to file briefs, the date originally set as the limit being Friday next, when some witnesses who were not allowed much time to address the committee, will be heard again. The chairman of the committee and those whose sincerity with regard to the revision of the tariff has been questioned are desirous of dispelling any impression that all witnesses will not be given an equal opportunity to be heard.

Monday the committee held hearing on the schedule for flax, hemp and jute, but this was not expected to arouse much interest, nor were many requests for changes looked for. Tomorrow cotton and silks will be considered and on Thursday the tariff on wool will be the subject for discussion. Both of these hearings will be of much importance in illustrating the general desire with regard to tariff revision.

BOSTON HAS ANOTHER SUBWAY

Washington Street Tunnel One of the Best in the World

Boston, Dec. 1.—Starting from the two opposite terminals of the elevated system at Dudley street and Sullivan square at 5.21 a. m. Monday trains entered the approaches of the new Washington street tunnel, proceeding in opposite directions, formally opening the underground thoroughfare to regular traffic. Following in each direction until the rush hours when the trains left Dudley street and Sullivan square at two minute intervals.

The Washington street tunnel is one of the most expensive stretches of underground systems in the world. Extending from Oak street in the south end of the city to Haymarket square, a distance of but 6119 feet, it cost nearly $10,000,000 to complete the excavation, construction and equipment. The work is understood to be a masterpiece of its kind. The new tunnel was planned chiefly to relieve the congestion of Washington street, the principal business thoroughfare of the city, under which it passes. Motive power is supplied by the "third rail system."

Academy Bowling Tournament

David C. Hawes Dies At Hampton Falls

Mrs. Mary Heaphey Lost Her Barn By Fire

East Rockingham Pomona Grange to Meet Wednesday

Exeter, Dec. 1.

An event in the athletic circle of the academy which is yearly growing in interest and which will this winter take a prominent place in the list of sports, alongside hockey and track work, is bowling. Last year the bowling tournament was one of the most successful events during the winter and this phase of the athletic training of the students, for such it can well be called, so well does it develop the muscles, is to receive more attention than ever the coming winter. This year, as last, each class will be represented by a team and with the keen rivalry which exists between the classes in all branches of athletics the tournament should furnish some good sport. Last year 1908 won the tournament by a good margin but 1909 and 1910 were evenly matched.

David C. Hawes, one of Hampton Falls' best known residents, died on Monday at his home in that town after an illness of a few months. He was in the seventy-sixth year of his age and had spent the most of his life in that town to which he came when a young man from his native city, New Bedford, Mass. He was born in New Bedford, Mass., in 1832, the son of Levi and Azubah (Caden) Hawes, where he spent his early boyhood, coming to this section of the country after a gold prospecting trip to California when a boy of eighteen years, and settling at Hampton Falls, where he has since pursued the occupation of a farmer. For the past ten years he has also carried on an extensive phosphate manufacturing business at his farm, turning out fifty tons yearly. He had always been a respected man in the community and had served the town as selectman two terms. Besides a widow, he is survived by four sons, Edwin D. of Lynn, Mass., Levi M. and Henry W. of California, and Samuel, who resides at the home, and one daughter, Mrs. Mary Dixon, also a resident at home. Mr. Hawes died from the effects of a stomach trouble for which he had recently undergone treatment at the Exeter Cottage Hospital. The funeral services will be held at the home on Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. George H. Driver, pastor of the First Congregational church of this town.

At 9.30 yesterday morning an alarm of fire was rung in from box 62 for a blaze at the residence of Mrs. Mary Heaphey at the junction of the Brentwood and Dipping roads. The flames were first discovered by Edward Tilton, a neighbor, who gave the alarm and the fire department was called by Irvine Hunter. The barn was well ablaze when the department arrived and efforts to save it were of no avail. The shed also was consumed but the firemen by effective work succeeded in saving the house. The contents of the barn were not very valuable neither were those of the woodshed. The flames were first seen by Mrs. Heaphey when she opened the woodshed door, the smoke and fire bursting into her face. The house was not burned but the gaint was somewhat bitterly smoked. The origin is not definitely known, but a theory is advanced by one of the neighbors who saw Mrs. Heaphey sitting ashes near the barn a short time prior to the breaking out of the fire and it is possible that a live coal might have been in the pile. The loss is estimated at $650, which is practically covered by insurance.

The quarterly meeting of the Rockingham County Republican Club will be held on Thursday at the probate court room.

Mr. Rodger L. Wilson of Jonesport, Me., has returned from a visit to the home of Mrs. D. T. French in Washington street.

Miss Annie M. French of the Acoustick Central Institute at Mars Hill, Me., has returned to her duties as teacher there.

Tomorrow the law will be off deer and many in this locality are planning for the annual slaughter. There are thirteen days for the hunting of the animals as there are two Sundays in the allotted period. Last year many of the animal were killed as they had become tame to such an extent that they came close to the towns and the killing in many instances was a veritable slaughter. This season, however, the hunters should have their work cut out for them as the animals have become more wary and are accustomed to beat the thick woods.

S. DANA REED

Death of the Oldest Citizen of the Town of Hampton

S. Dana Reed, the oldest citizen of Hampton, died on Saturday afternoon as the result of a fall about three months ago when he received injuries to a hip. He would have been ninety-five next March. He was born in Merrimac and as an expert stone mason had a long and interesting career in New York. He filled many important local and state contracts, among them the system of locks at Waterford and the Coburn dam.

He was for many years New York's state inspector of canals. He was a Mason, his lodge affiliations being at Waterford. Until his recent accident he retained remarkable vigor of body and mind and was a most interesting companion.

On July 18, 1850, Mr. Reed married Mrs. Susan Coffin of Hampton, where he once lived. About twenty years ago he retired to her home, where he had the devoted care of two of her grandchildren, Misses A. Blanche and Grace R. Williams. He leaves one son, Joseph D. Reed.

ABRUZZI ROMANCE REGARDED AS OVER

Dowager Queen Declared to Have Prevented the Marriage

Washington, Dec. 1.—Well-informed persons in Washington society believe that the romance of the Duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins has ended. This outcome is declared to be due solely to the determination of the Dowager Queen of Italy not to receive the chosen bride of her favorite nephew as a royal princess. Miss Elkins' determination to enter no family, even a royal family, unwelcome, or to go to a country where her birth, her breeding, her family or herself would be questioned was equally unalterable.

While it is literally true, as Senator Elkins says that no engagement between his daughter and the Duke of the Abruzzi has ever existed, that statement must only be accepted when one defines engagement in its strictest sense as a solemn promise to marry at some definite time. That the duke sought for 11 months to make Miss Elkins his bride is now a matter of history.

South Eliot Methodists Make Repairs on Church Property

Eliot, Me., Dec. 1.

The Congregational circle will hold a session in the vestry on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The South Eliot Methodists will hold a fair in the former parsonage on Thursday afternoon and evening.

Rev. Charles D. Crane of Pawtucket, R. I., humorous entertainer, drew an audience of seventy-five to the Congregational church on Monday evening.

The old Methodist parsonage at South Eliot has just been rehingled. The parsonage is now used as a vestry. There is much other shingling going on in that vicinity. T. F. Staples' residence and Edward Staples' house on Pleasant street and George H. Paul's barn on the Bolt Hill road are among the buildings.

Eliot is likely to furnish several exhibitors at the South Berwick poultry show on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of Christmas week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Staples are visiting Judge and Mrs. Blane at No. 37 St. James avenue, Boston. Judge and Mrs. Blane were formerly of Chicago. They are well known and liked by everybody here.

Fred Port has sold a cottage lot a short distance below Greenfield on the bank of the river to Miss Blakes of New York. She is to have some good sized trees set out on the lot and is planning to erect a cottage in the spring.

The forbidding of bringing cattle into Maine from other states is likely to make considerable inconvenience for people along the New Hampshire line, especially at South Berwick. Half a dozen drovers from Maine and New Hampshire are in the habit of driving small lots to South Berwick and shipping together, having enough for a cartload or two when all are assembled. They claim that it is preferable to holding cattle all each man has a cartload. These cattle are shipped to the Brighton market.

The failure of the expected rain on Monday night was a great disappointment.

DIVORCE CASES DECIDED

After reserving his decision Judge Pike has rendered verdicts in the following contested cases:

William K. Hills of Plattsburgh against the Boston and Maine railroad, action for damage by fire, verdict rendered for the plaintiff for $260.

Mary J. Carter against Edward F. Carter of Kingston, contested divorce case. Divorce was granted and $300 alimony.

The case of Melissa W. Moore against John H. Moore of Paris, month. Divorce granted.

NEW SHORT STORIES

Sympathy For a Bachelor.

A bachelor member of the senate, who recently addressed a young woman and had his offer rejected, went to Senator Hopkins of Illinois for sympathy and advice. Senator Hopkins is known to have a very sympathetic nature, and he listened patiently to the bachelor senator's tale of woe. When the whole harrowing narrative was finished Mr. Hopkins looked at his lovesick friend critically. The latter would not be classed as a handsome man. As a matter of fact, he is probably one of the homeliest men in the senate.

"Guess I'll tell you a story," said the junior Illinois senator, with a snuffle. "You have heard of Uncle Dick Oglesby, of course? Well, he was a very famous man in his day and one of the biggest governors my state has ever had. One day Uncle Dick, as every one affectionately called him, visited the state penitentiary at Joliet to hear complaints of prisoners. He stopped before a cell containing an unusually ugly man.

"My man," said Governor Oglesby pleasantly, "how did you get here?" "For abducting a girl," growled the man.

"Governor Oglesby looked him over critically and then said:

"Well, I'll pardon you as soon as I get back to Springfield. You could not get a girl in any other way?"

The bachelor senator laughed at first, but a moment later, when the application of the story dawned on him, he flew into a rage and hastened away. It was fully a week before he would deign to speak to the junior senator from Illinois.

Taft's Latest Fish Story.

Justice Harlan, says Joe Mitchell Chapple in the National Magazine, told a story to Judge Taft of how he went out to play golf in a fog. He thought he would drive the ball and sent it off at a "hazard." He came to the caddy and asked him to find the ball, looking within a radius of 300 yards. The caddy's eyes stuck out.

"I done found dat ball, Judge. It am in a hole sure 'nough. It jest wiggled in like."

It was certainly remarkable that a drive through the fog should place a ball where the most earnest effort of two to twenty strokes may fail to bring daylight.

Judge Taft responded with a fishing story, also about a fog. He went out one day in a wagon to fish, and the fog came down thick. He drove up where he thought the stream ought to be, cast his line, felt a pull and hauled in a fine trout another like and another, until the wagon was filled. The four fish, and the wagon was 300 yards from the river. There was a silence which might be felt when finger tips contacted, and Justice Harlan told no more fish stories.

Early Shopping.

There is little trouble attached to shopping in Buenos Aires. When a citizen with a plaided purse goes to market he buys his vegetables in piles without regard to quantity or quality. Nothing is bought by weight. If a man wants beef he simply tells the butcher he wants some meat, and he gets a chunk, pays the price and goes home satisfied.

THE WEATHER

Sixty-six degrees above zero is "going some" for temperature on the first day of December, but that is what the mercury recorded in the shade at two o'clock this afternoon.

CLAIMS HIS HOME IN PORTSMOUTH

Is Arrested in Chelsea for Bunco Steering

Gives Name of John Burns But No Such Man Is Known to Live in Portsmouth

A man, giving his name as John Bruce of Portsmouth, is accused of working a great bunco game at Chelsea, Mass., where he is now under arrest awaiting trial. The complaint against Bruce was made by four men who also dragged him to the police station when they got onto his game.

The story has it that four men seeking work in the burned district of that city were given application blanks for postal money orders filled out with their names and were told by the swindler it would secure employment for them at a figure marked on the slip. The slips cost $2.00 and were later found to be "phony."

When Bruce was arrested several other men appeared at the police headquarters with bad slips and stories of how they had been fleeced and asked that he be held for other cases.

There is at present no person bearing that name residing in this city. In fact, it has been years since this city knew that name and if the bunco man does belong here he has hauled the police of Chelsea a pretty good name. His case is to be disposed of in the municipal court today.

Seven shipwrights and one father-in-law in the construction and repair department were discharged on Monday for lack of work.

Increase in Wages

The secretary of the navy has ordered a general increase of wages of the clerks, draftsmen and some messengers in the different departments.

On this increase the watchmen of the yard are not favored while those of the per diem men who come under the increase receive from sixteen cents to fifty-six cents more under the new schedule.

Fireman Called

One first-class fireman was required today for duty in the department of equipment.

They Watched the Drill

The battalion drill of marines and sailors from the battleship Maine was witnessed by a large crowd at the yard parade grounds on Monday.

Lighting the Landing

The installing of an electric light on the navy yard ferry landing at the foot of Daniel street is an improvement that is much appreciated. The landing has for a long time been a dangerous place at night and Admiral Moore soon saw the necessity of a light and ordered one installed, much to the pleasure of all who have to travel that way.

"It is astonishing," remarked a well known authority on Diseases of the skin, "how such a large number of people, especially ladies, are, by attractively written advertisements, induced to purchase some one of the many so called Beauty Creams now on the market, not knowing, of course, that they mostly contain oily or greasy substances that clog the pores of the skin and are, for that reason, the very worst thing that they could possibly use. My treatment of Pimples, Blackheads, Blisters and all eruptions of the skin, are as follows and has to Wash the face carefully every night before retiring with warm water and a little oat meal tied in a small cloth bag, then, after drying well, use the following inexpensive mixture which can be filled at any Drug Store, Clearola 1-2 oz. Ether 1 oz. Alcohol 7 oz. Use this mixture on the face as often as possible during the day, but use night and morning any way, allowing it to remain on the face at least ten minutes, then the powdery film may be wiped off. Do not wash the face for some little time after using. By following this simple treatment, you will soon have a clear and Brilliant Complexion."
